

In an independent survey following the 2008 season, parents were asked, “what are your reasons for choosing Camp Ramah in Wisconsin for your child?” Here are some of their responses:

The positive, engaging, fun level of Jewish bonding and education with excellent role models in a beautiful natural environment.

Our children love the camp - the counselors, the routines, the Jewish living. The counselors exemplify modern Jewish life - they are outstanding role models. Our children sense that, and love being around them.

There are many Jewish camps that provide good content and context depending on their emphasis and stream, but Ramah provides all that and a wonderful safe and sacred space that the kids embrace and I feel it when I come to visit!

So that she could see Jewish life in a fun and exciting way. I also wanted her to meet new people.

It balances structure with freedom in a way that allows children to learn about themselves, the camp community, and their place in the larger Jewish community.

Camp Ramah helps my son understand that it can be fun to be Jewish, that Judaism is always a part of our lives, from the basketball court to the synagogue.

It provides a fantastic setting for kids and the chance to play/hang out in a safe, Jewish environment

Camp Ramah creates a fun Jewish atmosphere that provides many learning opportunities mixed with sports and arts.

It is an extremely well run camp with a strong Jewish program.

It provides friendships, Jewish values and Jewish community – it is a great place for my child

There is a sense of community and belonging and an all round excellent program -- great balance between Jewish education, friendships, fun, spending time outdoors, playing sport, learning aspects of art & theater. The entire staff is excellent.

Camp Ramah has an excellent reputation and was recommended by friends

We wanted our son to experience the joys of learning and living a traditional Jewish life amongst new people.

The leadership creates a camp where campers grow to love and trust each other. My daughter is making friends for life. She loves it, just loves it.

We wanted our kids to improve their Hebrew and for them to have a great time

Our children have been coming to Camp Ramah for many years. It is a critical, integral part of all of our lives. To be able to live life fully as an observant, Conservative Jew with peers and mentors all around in a caring community is an experience that we believe cannot be duplicated at any other camp.

Ramah's major strength is to expose children to Jewish values in a fun way.